

AMERICAN JEWISH HISTORICAL SOCIETY

2018 EMMA LAZARUS STATUE OF LIBERTY AWARD DINNER

Registration Form

The Board of Trustees of the American Jewish Historical Society is honoring Nicki Newman Tanner with the Emma Lazarus Statue of Liberty Award at its 2018 Award Dinner on Tuesday, November 13, 2018 at the Center for Jewish History in New York City.

Nicki's role as the founding director of the UJA-Federation of Jewish Philanthropies Oral History Project is part of the archival collections at the American Jewish Historical Society, and we are grateful that her work and attention to storytelling are a vital part of AJHS.

In addition to the stories Nicki told, the AJHS archives include the collections of some of the greatest women storytellers of all time, and we're honored to pay them special tribute at the 2018 Award Dinner.

SPONSORSHIP LEVELS

Emma Lazarus
$50,000

In writing "The New Colossus" for the Statue of Liberty, Emma Lazarus made the welcoming of immigrants central to the American story.

Henrietta Szold
$18,000

In creating Hadassah, at one time the largest women's Zionist organization, Henrietta Szold empowered Jewish women across the United States and pioneered health care in Israel.

Ray Frank
$25,000

In becoming the first Jewish woman to lead a service and deliver a sermon in 1890, Ray Frank gained nationwide acclaim and the nickname "The Girl Rabbi of the Golden West."

Molly Picon
$10,000

In gracing both the Yiddish and American stage and screen, Molly Picon brought to life the varied stories of Jews over the course of the 20th century.
